Napa Valley Writers Presents
The Journey of Writing a Book, Learning Bad Habits, and Telling Jokes

Yuri Kagan will share his journey on writing his book, getting the book together physically, and why he chose to self-publish. He will tell us what he wishes someone had told him about publishing and highlight the evening with a performance piece.

A dry-humor, observational, deadpan comedian, Yuri talks about growing up with an entire family from the Soviet Union without holding anything back. He has been profiled in SF Weekly, and has performed in SF Sketchiest, on Comedytime.tv, and in comedy clubs all over the country.

When: Wednesday, October 12th, from 7-9 p.m.
Where: Napa Valley Unitarian Universalists Church
1625 Salvador Avenue, Napa

Member Reader: Jan M. Flynn will read “Sub,” a Young Adult fiction piece. Catch her weekly posts on her Write On blog.

Public Welcome: Members $5, Guests $8, Students with ID, free.
Napa Valley Writers, a branch of the California Writers Club, holds monthly meetings.
